DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-16 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3, 9, 10, 12, 13, 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gerace (5,848,396).

Claims 1, 10, 12, 13. A method of advertising on the Internet comprising:

(a) grouping advertisements which can be displayed in at least one predetermined area of a web page;

(b) determining a sequence for the advertisements included in the groups according to predetermined criteria;

(c) assigning channel numbers to the advertisements on the basis of the determined sequence; and

(d) establishing a database to connect the predetermined areas to the groups of advertisements and the channel numbers (Fig. 2; Fig. 5c; Fig. 5d; col 12, lines 20-55; col 14, lines 45-50; col 7, lines 5-23; col 15, lines 10-15).

Claim 3, 15: Gerace further discloses that the advertisements are grouped according to advertisers or service categories (col 3, lines 4-10).

Claim 9: Gerace further discloses that the predetermined areas are banner advertisement areas, bit map areas, or gif areas (col 8, lines 11-16).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 2, 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gerace (5,848,396) in view of Mason (2002/0161648).

Claims 2, 14: Gerace discloses the above. Gerace further discloses that content can be advertisement or other types of content (col 2, lines 60-67). Gerace further discloses that there are different ad and content areas (as disclosed above). Gerace further discloses different categories and areas for presentation of content/information (col 7, lines 24-56; col 8, lines 13-32).

Gerace does not explicitly disclose that the website has multiple ad areas each for different groups of advertising.

However, Mason discloses multiple ad areas/slots each for different groups/categories/sets of advertising (Paragraph [11]; Figure 1; Figure 1, 'Insertion Order').

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to add Mason's ads categorized by ad slot/space to Gerace's categorized ads and multiple ad slots/spaces/areas per page. One would have been motivated to do this in order to better differentiate between different ad spaces on a page.

4. Claims 4-8, 11, 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gerace (5,848,396) in view of do Rosario Botelho(20020069105).

Claims 4, 5, 6, 16: Gerace discloses the above. Gerace further discloses:

- (e) displaying an advertisement in the predetermined area on a web page;
- (f) shifting to a channel number of a next advertisement in the sequence;
- (g) searching for an advertisement corresponding to the shifted channel number; and
- (h) displaying the advertisement searched in the predetermined area (see rejection above).

Gerace does not explicitly disclose that the next advertisement in the sequence can be requested by a user. However, Gerace discloses the user requesting different content (col 5, lines 27-33; col 11, lines 35-41). Gerace further discloses that advertising is a form of content (col 2, lines 60-67). And, do Rosario discloses the next advertisement in the sequence can be requested by a user (Figure 4; Paragraphs [11, 42, 43]; Claim 16).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to add do Rosario's user requesting more ads to Gerace's presentation of ads in a sequence and the user requesting content/information. One would have been motivated to do this in order to allow the user to view more ads of interest.

Claims 7, 11: Gerace further discloses linking to a website if a link to the website of the advertisement displayed in the predetermined area is requested by the user (col 14, lines 25-35).

Art Unit: 3622

Claim 8: Gerace discloses the above. Gerace further discloses that it is determined that the link to the website of the advertisement is requested by the user if the user clicks a number of times on an icon in the predetermined area or on the advertisement displayed in the predetermined area (col 14, lines 25-35). Gerace does not explicitly disclose that double click can be the command. However, it is obvious that double click can be utilized for different input commands. One would be motivated to do this to take advantage of different available command options.

Conclusion

The following prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:

a) Brown (6,601,041):

“1. A method of operating a computerized system that targets advertisements to users of a communications network, comprising: defining advertising campaigns and defining advertisements to be displayed to users of the communications network in accordance with the advertising campaigns and targeting criteria associated therewith; defining an advertising sequence which requires that a series of said advertisements be displayed to a user in a sequential order; receiving requests for advertisements from applications running on the communications network; in response to a request for an advertisement, selecting an advertisement from said advertisements in accordance with an advertisement selection process and providing an identification of the selected advertisement to the requesting application, wherein the advertising selection process selects the advertisement based on a prioritized collection of said advertisements; determining whether the selected advertisement is part of said advertising sequence; if the selected advertisement is part of said advertising sequence, modifying the advertisement selection process such that a next advertisement in the advertising sequence is selected in response to a next request for an advertisement in connection with a same user to which the previously selected advertisement in the advertising sequence was provided.”;

23. The method of displaying advertisements to a user of an online service using a client application on a local device of claim 20 wherein the user-selectable icon includes a cycle-forward icon, the cycle-forward icon being associated with a cycle-forward function, in the step of the client application detecting the user's selection of a given icon, the client application detecting the user's selection of the cycle-forward icon, in the step of the client application providing the functionality associated with the given icon, the client application determining a next advertisement which the ad display process caused to be displayed, if any, and the ad display process displaying the next advertisement.”;
